The 14th edition of the Arctic Futures Symposium is rapidly approaching!

Following a series of successful editions over the past few years, we are pleased to announce the return of the Arctic Future Symposium this fall, taking place at TownHall Europe, not far from the European Parliament in Brussels.

Between November 28th and 29th, the symposium will bring together experts from different disciplines and parts of the Arctic, offering a platform for lively discussions on key topics chosen by Arctic stakeholders.

The topics for this year's Symposium will focus on:

- Managing the Challenges of a Changing Arctic
- Avenues for Arctic Cooperation
- A Safe and Secure Arctic
- Arctic Youth: Meeting Challenges and Creating Opportunities
- Cultivating Arctic Communities
- Implementing a Just Green Transition in the Arctic

For more details about the symposium programme, speakers, and registration, please consult the Arctic Futures Symposium website
