On February 10, 1998, Alain Hubert and Dixie Dansercoer completed a groundbreaking expedition by crossing Antarctica. This monumental achievement not only highlighted their exceptional endurance but also set a new benchmark in polar exploration.

The expedition covered a distance of 3,924 kilometres over 99 days, combining man-hauling and kite-skiing techniques. Their journey traversed some of the most challenging terrains on Earth, demonstrating the limits of human capability and the power of teamwork. This historic crossing remains a testament to the spirit of adventure and the relentless pursuit of exploration.
